

Three Decades of Shaukat Khanum Memorial Trust:

From Mission to Model in Healthcare Professional Education

Humayun Bashir¹, Sana Munir Gill², Aniqah Agha², Muhammad Aasim Yusuf²

¹ Kent & Canterbury Hospital, Canterbury, UK

² Shaukat Khanum Memorial Cancer Hospital and Research Centre, Lahore, Pakistan

Objective

- Mission: A model institution for healthcare professional education
- Challenge: Resource-intensive cancer care funded by public donations
- Aim: Highlight SKMT's growth in clinical, allied health, and research education and its contribution to Pakistan's healthcare workforce

Methods

- Period 1995 to 2026
- Data Hospital Information System & HR records
- Programs reviewed
- Postgraduate training
 - Vocational education
 - International exam preparation
 - Research degrees
 - Allied health & nursing professional exams

Results

352 CPSP residents 16 specialties	165 SKMT Fellows non-CPSP	331 Post-basic nursing diploma	135 MLT graduates +13 enrolled	37 Prep courses MRCP, FRCR, FCPR	18 Research degrees 10 MPhil + 8 PhD	42 International training facilitations
---	---------------------------------	--------------------------------------	--------------------------------------	--	--	---

42 Candidates facilitated for international training

Conclusion

- Evolved into a leading centre for postgraduate medical, allied health & research training
- A substantial contribution to Pakistan's oncology workforce & cancer care capacity